I was in the midst
of reading
your letter
when this was taken.
It's very
strange,
isn't it?

Ever and
ever,

Jacquie

So this is me, too.
What makes you love an old witch
like this?
Anyway, keep
it up, honey.
Don't ever
forget me.

Yours,

Jacquie

At the Wishing Well,
Santa Cruz Beach.

While there, I
made a wish
for us. You were there beside me when I did. You're always near me
and I am always with you.

You own,
Jacquie.

My own Bobby,

Here's to our,

together. May all
of our dreams come

really shouldn't
be too long to wait,

we'll be together

Sweet Bob,

You see, you
never can tell what will happen after you leave me for a minute.

I don't care what
you think though;
this one I like!

Something else
I like is my baby.
Do you know who
I mean?

Love and all the
kisses in the world, Jacquie.

March 9, 1945.

Sweet,

Let's call this one
"The Three Cats". You know, the prettiest
part of this picture is Colique's tail.

Speaking of the
"Meow" species reminds me; did you know
that Mickey Mouse
left home because he found out his father was a rat?

Now go beat your
head against a wall.
Only, don't get your hair
mussed up doing it.
Love and love as ever,
Jacquie

(My new Easter bonnet.) The family doesn't think much of it. It has a light green veil on it and the hat itself is rose colored felt. Shippy said,
"Mother, you look just like a bride - all but your face." I asked him what was the matter with my face and he said, "Brides have young faces." Ha-ha.

Jacquie says "Hello, Bob."

Chuck took this picture of the gang at our "Private Swimming Pool" below the Pump house. Taken on the rocks where we used to wash the sand off our feet before putting on our shoes - remember. The little bridge with the water pipes is right above us but you can't see it in this picture.

a few feet up-stream from the big pool.
Jacquie and Mom in the canoe. Chuck on the bank. Its as rocky as ever.

97.
Does this look familiar, Honey? It should.
Dad and the boys patched and painted the canoe and made a new paddle for it. Everybody at the pool was begging for rides.

This was taken at the swimming pool at Arroyo Seco. - recognize the place where Dad, you and Skippy used to dive for rocks?

If we could have had you with us our trips would have been perfect, but we will have lots of them when you get home. God hasten the day.
